Lamar Soutter Library, University of Massachusetts Medical School, Worcester, Massachusetts.

Processing Information: This collection was partially processed by Alyssa Schaefer in November 2017. Processing was completed by Kristine Sjostedt in December 2019. Additional materials were added to the collection in May 2022, June 2024, and continue to be added.

Biographical / Historical Note: The Office of Communications is the official source of news and information at the University of Massachusetts Medical School (UMMS). Originally named the Office of Public Information and Development, its name changed to the Office of Public Affairs and Publications in 1981. Its name changed again in 2010 to the Office of Communications.

Scope and Content: The Office of Communications Records begin in 1962 and comprises publications such as UMMS catalogs, brochures, annual reports, and advertising. It also contains news clips and press releases related to research, disease information, UMMS and University of Massachusetts Medical Center (UMMC) awards, and UMMS/UMMC building projects and campus development. Also included are records relating to UMMS history, UMMC and UMMS policies and department information, community outreach, foundations, and UMMS commencements. Materials include drafts, notes, memos, correspondence, press releases, news clips, advertisements, and reports.
