DIGITAL HUMANITIES @ FAIRFIELD UNIVERSITY

Fairfield University's Digital Humanities collection showcases digital scholarship completed by University faculty and students across the humanities. Their innovative work employs digital tools to analyze complex information and represent it in novel ways. The goal of the hub is to contribute to the enduring vitality of the humanities and encourage other faculty members to participate in digital scholarship.

The Fairfield Digital Humanities collection promotes digital scholarship in the humanities, in collaboration with the DiMenna-Nyselius Library and with support from the Humanities Institute in the College of Arts and Sciences.

The screenshot shows the Digital Commons@Fairfield website. At the top, the header includes the site name "Digital Commons@Fairfield" and the Fairfield University logo. Below the header is a navigation bar with links for "Home", "About", "My Account", and "Library". The main content area is divided into two columns. The left column contains a search bar, a "Browse" button, and a list of categories: Collections, Disciplines, Authors, Online Journals, and Conferences. Below this is an "Author Corner" section with links for Contact Information, FAQ, Selected Works, Faculty Policies & Submission, Student Policy Statement & Submission Agreement, and Nominate Student Work. The right column features a "Browse Research and Scholarship" section with a "Follow" button and a list of categories: Colleges, Schools, Centers, Departments; Selected Works Author Gallery; Online Journals; and Conferences. Below this is a description of the repository's purpose. A large blue arrow points from the "Nominate Student Work" link in the left column to the "Browse Research and Scholarship" section on the right. At the bottom of the right column, there is a "Recent Downloads" section showing "1 of 190" downloads in the past day, and a world map with a location pin.
